Crippen Trial Begins

CROWD CHURCHES AND PRAY FOR RAIN; BURYING VICTIMS

Strange Scenes Taking Place in the Towns Situated in the Fire Zone
—No Time or Inclination to Dally Over Last Rites—Several Bodies Buried Together in One Coffin—Fortunate Delay of Fast Express.

Beaudette, Minn., Oct. 11.—The dead bodies recovered here now number 125. It is expected the total will be between four and five hundred.

FIRE BREAKS OUT AGAIN.

Rainy River, Ont., Oct. 11.—Fire broke out here again in the east end this morning, but is now under control. If the wind does not get up again there is no danger to this town.

PEOPLE PRAYING FOR RAIN.

Fort Frances, Ont., Oct. 11.—The bush fires are smouldering half a mile from International Falls across the river, on the east, south and west of the town. It is calm now, but should it blow up again that town is doomed.

Much the same conditions obtain at Rainy River.
Seventy-five men are fighting the fires around International Falls.

Small fires have been located both east and west of Fort Frances and the fire fighting apparatus is away on the alert. A wind would be disastrous.

People here are praying in the churches for rain.
Rainy River, Oct. 11.—The head fires today were said over a number of those who perished in the fire. There is neither time nor inclination for any elaborate rites. Only the roughest of boxes could be provided and several bodies were enclosed in the same coffin. The remains in many cases were unrecognizable and their identity was only surmised by the location where the remains were found.

A FORTUNATE DELAY.

Fort William, Oct. 11.—The C. N. R. passenger train leaving here for the west on Friday was delayed by some minor mishaps and thereby saved from probable disaster. The train was delayed in waiting for the C. P. R. express from the east, it being known there were a number of passengers to transfer. Leaving the yards late, the brakeman in adjusting the tail lights, fell overboard. "Not being seriously hurt," he returned to town, but he was missed speedily and the train backed down and picked him up, losing over forty minutes.
In the meantime an eastbound freight discovered that the trestle near Lasine was on fire, which the slower freight was able to avoid and warn the express, which came along thirty minutes later. Had the express not met the second delay, it would have probably come to the trestle at a high speed in an endeavor to catch up its schedule and gone through the trestle with the heavy loaded coaches.

$200,000 SOAP COMPANY TO LOCATE IN EDMONTON SHORTLY

The manager of one of the Canadian soap companies is in the city making investigations as to the possibilities for the location of a factory here. He intends to establish a factory either here or in Saskatoon, but on looking about here he has come to the conclusion that in view of Edmonton's geographical position it offers the best advantages, and has stated his intention of locating here.

"The company will be incorporated with a capital of between $100,000 and $200,000," said the visitor to the Capital this morning, "and a certain amount of it will be subscribed by Edmonton business men."

"Edmonton," he said, "has many advantages to offer for an industry of this kind, one of the principal ones being that the raw material is here. The tallow can be secured from the Griffin Packing plant."

In a conference between the mayor and the promoter this morning the former expressed his approval of the proposition and intimated that concessions might be made by the council. To further investigate the proposition, a meeting of the manufacturers committee of the council will be held tomorrow morning.

No definite site has been decided on yet, as the city is figuring on acquiring a few more manufacturing sites, from which one may be chosen. It is suggested that a site near the packing plant would be desirable.

LIBRARY COMMITTEE TO GET BUSY; TALK CARNEGIE GRANT

After an inactivity of four months the committee which has the establishment of the Edmonton Public Library in hand will renew their efforts this week when a meeting is to be called by Chairman K. W. MacKenzie. The committee will discuss the proposition of the Carnegie Library fund committee and will also frame a resolution to be presented to the city council, asking for a reasonable annual grant for maintenance. The grant made by the Carnegie committee is based on what the municipality gives. It is considered that $7,500 would cover the cost of maintenance, and if such a grant is obtained the money grant from Mr. Carnegie would range between $50,000 and $75,000.

The site of the Edmonton Public Library is to be on College avenue overlooking the embankment. It is proposed that a first-class, modern library building be constructed which shall in appearance and adequacy be in accordance with the progressive spirit of the people of Edmonton.

Those who are on the committee are K. W. MacKenzie, chairman; E. Ross Palmer, secretary; Mr. J. J. Beck, Ald. Lundy, Dr. Riddell and Mr. Louis Madore. The committee was appointed by last year's council.

Another Candidate for Mayor's Chair

PREMIER HOME SOON.

Is Expected Back From Ottawa in the Course of a Few Days.
It was stated at the parliament buildings this morning that Premier Sifton is expected back from Ottawa in a couple of days. The premier has been in consultation with the federal authorities in reference to the compensation to be paid by the province to the Dominion in respect to certain public buildings taken over by Alberta.

ANOTHER NAME FOR MAYORALTY RACE

A. W. Challand, President of St. George's Society, Mentioned as Possible Candidate.

HAS BEEN ASKED TO RUN

But Has Not Decided Yet—Thinks Pressure of Business May Keep Him Out.

A. W. Challand.

Just add that name to the list of mayoralty candidate possibilities and you will have it about complete.

The list of those whose names have now been mentioned as possible candidates for mayoralty honors in the coming municipal elections is now as follows:

Mayor, Robert Lee.

Ald. Wilfrid Garvey.

Ald. George Armstrong.

James McGeorge.

A. W. Challand.

Mr. Challand was asked by the Capital this morning if he intended to run.

"Why, I haven't thought about it yet at all," said he.

"You have been asked to have your name placed before the electors as a candidate for mayor, have you not?" asked the reporter.

"Yes," replied Mr. Challand, "I have. But so far I have not given any definite answer, and in fact have hardly thought of the matter yet. Owing to the pressure of business, I hardly think it likely that I will be a candidate, however."

Mr. Challand is the manager of the J. J. McLaughlin Company here. He is president of the St. George's Society and also a member of the Board of Trade.

A MATTER OF EUPHONY

Edison Easier to Enunciate Than Edison, so Entertaining Postmaster Uses It.

It took Mr. Graves of the Immigration hall some ten minutes to pronounce a lady from the East this morning that the name of the postmaster and government agent at Edison was Geo. A. Edison and not George A. Edison. As he had left his old home in the East as Edison it came as a shock to these old friends of his that he was masquerading under a new name.

But it is not so criminal as it looks. The world knows Edison—lots of them, including Thomas A. and even Edison is not unknown but Edison was something abnormal—too great a stretch for the vocal organs and the average orthography. So, after suffering at the hands of the public for years, Mr. Edison quietly began to write his name Edison which after all is a much more euphonic combination of letters especially when applied to a post office.

KAISER TO RETURN VISIT.

Will Go to Belgium Towards the End of October.

Brussels, Oct. 11.—The Kaiser will pay his return visit to King Albert towards the end of October. He arrives in a warship at Antwerp, where he will be received by the king. His Majesty will then go to Brussels for two or three days.

There will be a grand review, but apart from this nothing has been decided upon officially.

THE CAT IS NOW OUT OF THE BAG

Application Made By The Grand Trunk Pacific to Use Asiatic Labor in British Columbia.

APPEAL TO GOVERNMENT

D'Arcy Tate Presented Application and Used Some of Mr. C. M. Hays' Interviews.

GOVERNMENT REFUSED IT

Decided to Stick by Policy of Conserving British Columbia for White People.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 11.—An application of importance came before the government of British Columbia today's sitting of the Executive Council, being made by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company through its solicitor, Mr. D'Arcy Tate and being for an order-in-council to permit of the employment of Asiatic labor on the construction of the G. T. P. through British Columbia.

The application was accompanied by a newspaper clipping from the Manitoba Free Press, of the 14th of September, the gist of which was briefly the alleged scarcity of labor in the province and its interference with the progress of construction. This article stated, as confirmed by President Charles M. Hays, that such is the labor situation in British Columbia, and so acute the feeling against the utilization of other than white labor, that it has been found impossible to carry on construction within British Columbia beyond the completion of the present contract held by Foley, Welch and Stangor, a point 238 miles east of Prince Rupert.

The contractors mentioned, it was further alleged, had declined to take on any more work from the British Columbia end, claiming that under present conditions they are even now losing hundreds of dollars daily under their contract.

After consideration, the government decided to refuse the application as being inconsistent and distinctly at variance with the well known policy of conserving British Columbia, its resources and its industrial opportunities for white people.

ISOLATION FAILS? "NO," SAYS THE M.H.O.

Dr. Whitlaw Does Not Agree With Dr. F. P. McNulty of Peterborough.

HOME ISOLATION BEST?

Dr. Whitlaw Thinks Not—It Is Too Often Broken—Hospital the Best.

Dr. F. P. McNulty, of the Board of Health, Peterborough, Ontario, has announced that in his opinion that hospital isolation after long years of trial has failed utterly in controlling either the incidence or mortality rate of scarlet fever, and that the disease has increased in prevalence almost in accordance with the provisions for its isolation. Dr. McNulty contends that the best method is intelligent home isolation, the municipality to supply the nurse, and in diphtheria cases, the antitoxin.

The Capital this morning asked Dr. Whitlaw for his opinion on Dr. McNulty's contentions.

"Hospital isolation is the only feasible method for controlling infectious diseases of all kinds," said Dr. Whitlaw. "Home isolation is in the great majority of cases inadequate. It is impossible for the city to police each of the houses under quarantine and it is necessary to rely on the good faith of the people living in such a house. I have heard of cases, however, in which the father, when his home was quarantined, had boarded out, and under cover of darkness, had sneaked back to his house to see his family. The

A New Spirit Needed

Board of Trade Does Not Need New Organization—Present Officers Have Done Excellent Work But They Have Not Received Support of Members

The Capital desires to make it clear, that while it published the article in reference to the Board of Trade in last night's issue as a matter of news and as reason to believe that it will serve a useful purpose in arousing a greater degree of interest on the part of the members, it is not of the opinion that the present officers are in any sense to blame for the conditions to which attention was called. To its Board of Trade Edmonton owes a very great deal. There is no city in Western Canada, whose publicity work has been carried on more energetically and more intelligently, and the citizens have been kept over and over again for every dollar of civic money that has been spent upon it. During the past year, so far from there being a cessation of activity on the part of those in charge, they have never been busier and never had better results to show. The opportunity, which has been afforded by the excellent year which the territory tributary to Edmonton has enjoyed, in comparison with many other parts of the continent, has been fully taken advantage of. No newspaper reader can be in any doubt as to the fact that, whatever conditions may be elsewhere in the West, they are very satisfactory in the Edmonton city.

But the handful of men to whom the principal officers are entrusted cannot be expected to accomplish everything of their own bat. They require the constant cooperation of the mass of business men, and this they have not received. Meetings that have been called to discuss matters of prime importance to the city have been attended by a very small fraction of the Board's membership. This places too large a responsibility on the few and discourages those who have the public spirit to initiate measures looking to the city's development.

A little plain talk, under these circumstances, will do no harm. Edmonton occupies a very fortunate position, but it has been rivals on every side and if its future is to be in keeping with the promise of the past and of the present, it is absolutely necessary that its citizens brighten up and not take so much for granted. The outcome is that we have to rely, in the article published yesterday, a change in the character of the organization was suggested by some of the citizens interviewed. The Capital sees no reason for such change. What is needed is an infusion of some of the old spirit into the mass of the members. What it accomplishes is the old days, in the face of stupendous difficulties, we all know. Surely when things are coming our way, we are not going to sit back and let things go by default, when a little concerted effort would enable us to reap the full results of early struggles.

BOARD OF TRADE IS MUCH STIRRED UP

Article in Yesterday's Capital Discussed at Board of Trade Meeting This Afternoon—Did Good, as Attendance Was Larger Than Ever Before.

The article which appeared in the Capital last night gave rise to a discussion at the meeting of the board of trade at noon today. Incidentally it might be mentioned that the attendance was larger than at any of the previous meetings for some time.

At the conclusion of the regular business, President McGeorge withdrew from his pocket a copy of yesterday's Capital.

"An article appeared in a local paper yesterday," he said, "which reflects on the board of trade. If any member present has any criticism to make or any lack to register, now is the time to make it."

"We would like to have a discussion on the matter, anyway," supplemented the president.

Mr. A. C. Harrison was the first to comment on the article.

"It seems to me from what I have

Shortage of Teams is Cause of Coal Famine

With the cold weather approaching, householders are crying out for coal and can't get it. Everywhere the cry is the same. At all large offices, orders for fuel are piling up and the worst of the position is that the merchants in most cases have plenty of coal but no teams to draw it. The scarcity of teams in town has been attributed to many causes by different firms in town.

This afternoon the Capital rang up a number of coal companies on the phone, and in practically all cases got the same answer.

The Standard Coal Company said that they had plenty of coal and a large number of orders but scarcely any means of drawing it to the consumers' houses. The shortage of teams, they attributed to the number taken west to the construction camps, which had not returned yet. A shortage of miners was also another source of trouble, but for this they could give no reason. The teams are coming in

CRIPPEN CASE TO GRAND JURY

October Sessions of Central Criminal Court Opened in London This Morning.

CRIPPEN CASE ON DOCKET

Sir F. Fulton, Grand Jury Recorder, Gave Complete History of Now Famous Case.

CHARGE AGAINST COUPLE

Urges Jury to Bring In True Bill Against Both Crippen and Miss LeNeve

(Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Oct. 11.—The October sessions of the central criminal court opened this morning. In charging the grand jury Recorder Sir F. Fulton said that there were 95 persons to be tried at the sessions, and amongst the cases to be heard was the charge of murder against Crippen who was described as a dentist.

History of the Case.
Miss Le Neve, his typist, who was indicted for being an accessory after the fact, which remarked the recorder, was one who, knowing a felony to have been committed, received, relieved, comforted or assisted the felon. It was necessary, therefore, in Le Neve's case, that those who brought the charge against her should establish that she knew Crippen committed the murder.

"Your duty, happily, is not to try the case," he said, "but merely to see whether the evidence is such as to justify you in returning a true bill against either or both. His lordship proceeded to deal with the details of the evidence, giving the police court story.

From this, he said, it was apparent that Mrs. Crippen was seen in excellent health and spirits on January last. Soon after then she disappeared. In consequence of rumors and suspicions as to the cause of her disappearance Crippen wrote to Dr. Burroughs, a friend of his and Mrs. Crippen, that she had died in California and that the cable announcing her death had come as a great shock to him. Crippen told practically the same story to Mrs. Martinetti, a friend of Mrs. Crippen, that his wife had taken pneumonia on going to America and had died at Los Angeles.

Before Mrs. Crippen disappeared she had conversation one day with Mrs. Martinetti and showed her an abdominal scar which was left as the result of an operation. That, the recorder marked, would be a piece of evidence of great importance in the case, for according to the evidence of doctors there was a similar scar on the body found at Hilldrop Crescent.

Inspector Dew's interview.
In consequence of communications made to the police, Inspector Dew saw Crippen at the Albion House when he made a long statement which contradicted the version of his wife's death which he had already given. Crippen stated that he had made an untrue statement of his wife's death to avoid public scandal.

When Miss Le Neve was seen by the police, she said that Crippen had told her that his wife had gone to America and later on she had died there. Miss Le Neve's statement, continued the recorder, appears to be a uniform one, showing that she was acting as Crippen's mistress without having the slightest idea that murder had been committed or that Mrs. Crippen had not died as Crippen had said. This lordship next pointed to the discovery of the body and commented that a scar was discovered on the abdominal wall similar to that shown by Mrs. Crippen to Mrs. Martinetti some time previously. It was in the evidence, too, that Dr. Wilcox, government analyst, had secured in the body

SHOULD ISOLATION HOSPITALS BE ABOLISHED?

The isolation hospital problem isn't a new one for Edmonton. Much criticism has been heard from time to time as to the way in which it has been handled here. Just where the blame lies is not always easy to determine. Is it possible that it lies chiefly, not with any individual, but with the system itself? It causes trouble everywhere. Toronto is in the midst of an investigation which is not calculated to make the institution in that city any more popular, and which has led Dr. McNulty, the chairman of the Board of Health of Peterborough, Ont., to come out against this method of treating infectious diseases in its entirety. He declares that sanitariums in England which have made a life-long study of the question, have come to the following conclusions:

1. That hospital isolation, after long years of trial, has utterly failed in controlling either the incidence or mortality rate of scarlet fever.

2. That the disease has increased in prevalence almost pari passu with increased provision for its isolation.

It is found in England, he asserts, that those districts having isolation hospitals invariably suffer a higher death rate than those without these institutions. Where there are no hospitals, there are periodic outbreaks alternating with periods of immunity. In the hospital districts, these diseases have been consistently prevalent year after year, the form of the disease is more malignant and the mortality higher. The hospital "feels itself," and this converts an epidemic disease into a continuous or endemic one. The aggregation of patients in hospital ward generates "return cases." In scarlet fever it has been repeatedly observed that a fresh series of cases arises in the home of the neighborhood to which a discharged patient has been sent. Thus the diseases are forever present and once an isolation hospital has been established to cope with an epidemic, it is practically never afterwards able to close its doors or cease from its labors.

When mild cases are treated along with others, the symptoms often become aggravated. The patients suffering from mild disease come more severe form and convalescents are re-infected by freshly-admitted patients. Many children who have been successfully steered through the initial stages of an epidemic are unable to resist the "return" type of infection.

"A more virulent type of disease," writes Dr. McNulty, "is fostered by the aggregation of scarlet fever patients in isolation hospitals and so a child admitted with a mild attack, which the other children of the household were able to resist, becomes contaminated in the hospital with a more virulent form, returns home after a varying time, diffuses the germ of a more virulent type, which time is able to overcome the resistance of the other children, and so a fresh series of cases develop."

Dr. McNulty says it is possible that these dangers could be avoided in an ideal hospital, which would be extremely elaborate and expensive. Unless such accommodation is provided, he prefers intelligent home isolation. In cases of necessity the municipality should supply the nurse, the anti-toxin, the disinfectants, and the wages of the bread-winner or pay his board away from home, and allow him to continue at his work. Exceptional cases should be treated in hospital terms.

"Segregation, not aggregation," is Dr. McNulty's motto. "One does not need to be a specialist in health matters to appreciate the reasonableness of what Dr. McNulty has to say. If, as he alleges, the opinion of the British health authorities is against the maintenance of these hospitals altogether, why are they kept up here? Those to whom we look for guidance in these matters in this country should take the question up. If isolation hospitals are worse than useless, and if the evidence that they be abolished in their entirety without delay. Communities are willing to stand a certain amount of experimenting. But their patience becomes exhausted in the course of time.

HANCOCK'S STATEMENT

The Journal says that the present situation in Canada bears out Grover Cleveland's famous dictum that the tariff is a local issue. The Journal is wrong in ascribing this to Mr. Cleveland. It was put forth by General Hancock, who opposed Garfield in 1880 and was regarded at the time as the height of foolishness. It was practically the means of laughing him out of the fight. General Hancock was a brave soldier, but came into the field without any political reputation. People were looking for him to make some bad breaks and this was seized upon as the first and worst of them. But as time has gone on, people have come to the conclusion that he wasn't so far wrong after all, whether his remark was the result of political wisdom or not. The tariff should not be a local issue but opinions in regard to it are certainly formed strictly with regard to the supposed effect which it will have on one's own district rather than with a view to sound economic principles or the general good of the country.

What Others Say

ADVERTISE WELL IN ADVANCE

Winnipeg Commercial

This is only the first of October, and Christmas is nearly three months away. Do you know, though, that in a very few weeks the many thousands of people here from the Old Country will be starting out their gifts for loved ones across the ocean, to get there before December 25? Are you preparing for that profitable trade? If not, someone else is. Get busy and advertise that you will supply wants in that connection.

The advertising which is done in advance of the season has more force, vitality and influence than at any other time. The experienced business houses which have the intricate conduct of business reduced to a fine art, all begin their advertising several weeks before the opening of the season. They realize that they require to attract the serious attention of many people. To postpone advertising until the season has opened, and then have it running long after most people have bought their goods is a waste of precious money and an exhibition of business un wisdom which is limited to it would be better to begin long before the buying season, and cease with its opening, rather than have the advertising and purchasing running simultaneously. The merchant who does the latter will miss many sales he would otherwise have obtained, because his rivals will be early planting the seeds of argument upon fallow ground and when the purchasing time arrive they will reap the harvest of their forthright.

Now is the time to "get busy" on your advertising, if you have not already planned it. There is considerable to be done before it is doing its work in the brains of the people, and it will be surprising how rapidly the days will slip by while the preliminaries are being arranged.

THE CZAR OF THE NORTH

Canadian Colliers.

Jim Cornwall—beg pardon, J. K. Cornwall, M.P.—is back from his special pilgrimage to the Peace River country. Jasper avenue knows him once more. The Edmonton Club listens to his good stories, looking out of the smoking-room window, toward the moon that shines bright on the Saskatchewan River, up and away to that Northland where the fresh air is not tainted by the breath of politics. The Peace River is Jim Cornwall's kingdom—about the size of the German Empire. It is the largest constituency in Canada and has the fewest vote. No matter how the parties go the votes go to Jim Cornwall, for every vote there is an honest opinion and Peace River is just his. He sits forth in the Alberta legislature and loves it everywhere and all the time. He makes no bones of travelling a thousand miles in fifty below zero weather to attend to his parliamentary duties. He took a bunch of magazine writers there and paid the shot, not for the personal advertising he might get out of it, but for the good it would do the land of his desire and also to show these writing fellows what nature's heart looks like away from the railway. Among the things he gave them were tired bodies, hunger without cocktails, and sound sleep made sounder by the scene of pines—all which good gifts they may lose when they get back to the crowd.

HUMOR AND PHILOSOPHY

Red Tuberoses.
Chinese find this have tuberoses of a red color, which, however, is not inherent in the plant, but is produced in two ways—either by placing the flower stalk in water in which a red earth is dissolved or by supplying the roots of the plant with water in which the coloring matter has been dissolved.

The Adirondacks.
There are no venomous snakes or beasts in all of the great Adirondack forest section, although there are deer in abundance, eagles, pheasants, bears and beavers.

Lung Cells.
One hundred and seventy-five million cells are in the lungs, which would cover a surface thirty times greater than the human body.

Garters in China.
In China the natives tie the bottoms of their trousers closed around their ankles and so do not need garters. They have a fondness for American garters, however, but wear them on the outside as ornaments.

Orchards.
Experiments have shown that, while orchards are injured by cattle, they yield better crops with sheep or logs than when not pastured at all.

Driving Rivets.
Ordinarily a bolt or rivet, where the rivet must be steam tight and well driven, 1,000 or 1,500 rivets might be considered a good day's work, while on structural work, such as girders, 3,000, 4,000 or more are generally driven, and on such irregular work as trusses probably 2,000 or 2,500.

Whales in Deep Water.
It is estimated that a whale when he plunges, as he often does, 4,000 feet down into the sea has to support a pressure of over 200,000 tons, or 137 tons to the square foot.

Altitude and Labor.
It has been found in Switzerland that in building a railway laborers can work only one-half as long at a height of 10,000 feet as a mile lower.

A Golden Bath.
Mine, due Harry when the zenith of her power and in a bath so constructed that on touching a tap a cascade of golden lozels from a reservoir that was always kept well supplied with gold of the finest water. This device was fashioned, it is said, to represent the legend of Danais.

Dynamite.
Dynamite becomes more dangerous to handle in cold weather, because its explosive content freezes at from 42 to 45 F.

The Man in the Moon.
An old folklore legend confidently asserts that the man in the moon is no other than that ancient Hebrew woman the Jews ascribed to death for gathering sticks on the Sabbath day, as recorded in Numbers xv, 32-33.

Netherlands Fruit Farms.
Some fruit lands in the Netherlands are valued as high as $3,000 per acre.

Detroit's First Map.
It is claimed that Joseph Gaspard Chaussegros de Derby, a French engineer, made the first maps of Detroit in 1749 and 1754.

Liberian Sugar Cane.
In Liberia sugar cane reaches a height of twenty to thirty feet. A stalk sometimes becomes so heavy that it is bent over until it touches the ground in two or three places, taking root at each place.

Tired Feet.
When your feet are very tired and hot, plunge them into a basin of cold water and keep them there until a sensation of warmth begins. Then dry them and put on fresh stockings and shoes.

Arab Music.
Arab music is often described as the singing of a prison donna who has ruptured her voice in trying to sing a duet with herself. Each note starts from somewhere into a basin of cold water, but does not stop even there and splits up into four or more portions, of which no person can be expected to catch more than one at a time.

England's Navy.
The "father of the British navy" was Henry VII. It was in 1485 that Henry built the Royal Harry, considered to be the beginning of the English navy. His own subjects were deploring the loss of the old ship-building and he imported Genoese workmen to instruct them. The Royal Harry was the first real English warship ever built, and it remained the model ship for more than fifty years.

Mills Not Destroyed
Winnipeg, Oct. 11.—It was officially denied by the Rainy River Lumber Co., that their Rainy River plant had been burned as rumored. On Sunday Secretary Bell, of the Rat Portage Lumber Co., has no definite report of the damage to their mills at Rainy River, but says if the loss is complete as reported, it will amount to $400,000.

Rainy River, Oct. 10.—The country between Warroad and Beaudette is undoubtedly strewn with charred corpses. Three days have passed and hundreds of well-known settlers and their families have not been heard from. Four entire families were found dead near Beaudette and searchers believe that further in the interior the sights will be appalling. Only fifty men are out investigating conditions and there should be hundreds, but the ground is so hot that it is impossible for anyone to travel far and then experienced woodsmen are in here to-night dismayed. Only fourteen bodies have been brought to Beaudette and nineteen were seen along the Rapid river.

One hundred and ninety typhoid fever patients were removed from Out Beaudette and are suffering from want of necessities and money may die. The towns of Roosevelt and Williams are threatened again tonight as the wind is rising.

One thousand refugees from Pitt, Spooner and Beaudette have been taken to Rainy River, Duluth and International Falls. Fully 5,000 people are homeless.

Refugees Fight Flames
Fort Frances, Oct. 10.—Forest fires threaten International Falls with three thousand population, across the river from here. Several fires have been burning near International Falls for thirty hours and a high wind would sweep the fires into the city. A force of about fifty men worked all night but were unable to extinguish the fires. Rushing from one spot to another they were able to render the city and in a threatened quarter but fires repeatedly broke out immediately behind them.

This morning Mayor Berg wired the governor of Minnesota for military aid as there are not enough available men there to adequately protect the city. The 225 refugees from Spooner and Beaudette are being sheltered in International Falls homes. The men from the fire-stricken area, he men are destitute, everybody lost everything except the clothes they were wearing. The refugees say that if the fire had invaded Beaudette and Spooner during the night the whole population would have perished.

John Berg, mayor, and Mrs. Riley are directing the local relief work. Mrs. Riley apportioned the billets and the homes of the refugees here were placed at her disposal. The finance committee raised $1,000 cash by local subscription and all refugees are to be supplied with underwear and necessary clothing. Incipient fires are still smoldering over an area of probably 5,000 acres in northern Minnesota and Western Ontario.

getting what they should for their money. Otherwise, he could not see that the article could do anything else than good.

"Why look at the attendance to-day," said Mr. Fraser, "it is larger than any previous meetings. I think it will have the effect of waking the members up to a proper interest."

Mr. Fraser then suggested that an executive of the board work more in co-operation with the newspapermen and give them all the information that they could as to the work and operation of the board. The suggestion was received with applause.

President McGeorge took exception to the headings to the article, but no one cared to discuss that phase of it.

There was only a few routine matters taken up by the board outside the discussion of the Capital's article and the board thereupon adjourned.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE EMPIRE

"She met him on the hill slope with a cry of joy, and kissed him. It came into his mind to throw away, but he could not, and he kissed her. Then she linked her arm in his and they turned down the beach."

"So begins the romance of 'The Manxman' into which as a play as well as the book, Hall Sainsbury has distilled such a vast amount of heart interest and power, for we must acknowledge the power of every one of the writings of this gifted author. The Manxman, like the rest, is a page from real, throbbing everyday life. It is the tale of a mighty love which finds victory even in defeat and rises far above the commonplace into realms which would seem superhuman. Caine, prolific always, has a particular propensity in the matter of working up to magnificent climax and centre the power of his art upon a certain scene and then receding without losing a single iota of interest. He chooses lessons from actual happenings and vividly depicts the side of life which will better suit his purpose and then in a masterful manner dresses a worthy lesson in a garment of intense interest, which holds and grips the beholder of his play. More tightly than the mere reading of the book could possibly do. He writes of humans in a human way. He does not over-do it. He puts words of real live men and women into the mouths of his characters and makes players live and breathe. Human emotions are playthings in this wizard's hands and he with all his power never sinks for a single instant into the unnatural or impossible. The coming of 'The Manxman' to the Empire theatre for an engagement of three nights the latter half of this week, with Mr. Frederick Clarke and a notable cast, will be one of those rare treats which will live in the memory of the beholder long after the glitters of the stage lights has faded and gone out. The appearance will be notable in many ways not the least of which is the completeness of the production and the brilliancy of the play. The tour of the Manxman is under the direction of Mr. J. Cosgrove and even were Mr. Clarke unknown in this section, this alone would be a sufficient guarantee of the completeness of the attraction.

AT THE LYCEUM

The twenty-first production of Sherman's Musical Comedy Company started last night at the Lyceum Theatre, (where the laughs come from), "Married Makers" is in many cases respects a greater novelty than any preceding bill they have offered; the principals are for the most part capable in interpretations, and the chorus is industrious and frequently occupied, but the matter of the plot is less the company is sadly lacking in many places. As a scenic art, night display the present offering is as easy first among the productions which have previously been presented at this house. The show in its early stages makes halting progress, but the scenery and half makes up for what the acting section lacks in vivacity and activities. The girls have won a place in the hearts of the theatre goers of this city for their conscientious work. "Married Makers" is a musical comedy large full of complications and wit. The ridiculous complications are speedily tangled and satisfactorily untangled in sixty minutes and leaves the impression of a two hour show.

THE CIGARETTE MAKER OF SEVILLE

This magnificent drama is perhaps the most popular of Grand Opera bits, and it shows to a great advantage in motion pictures. The plot centres around the vivacious Carmen, a beautiful cigarette maker and the most fascinating charmer in the town. Bubbling over with life and mischief, and intoxicated with the admiration and flattery which surrounds her whole life, she plays a dangerous game with her followers' hearts. Her very audacity seems to save her from the jealousy of the various rivals, until she meets Don Jose. She overestimates his powers of endurance and imagines he will accept defeat as easily as the others have done. But this time she is mistaken, for rather than see her in another man's arms he stalks her to the heart and so ends her existence and his own brief happiness. This excellent production will be shown at Starland tonight for the last time.

REPORT INFANTILE PARALYSIS CASES

Provincial Board of Health Sends Out Request to All Medical Health Officers.

EPIDEMIC IN PROVINCE

And All Cases Must Be Quarantined For at Least Three Weeks.

In consequence of the appearance of infantile paralysis in epidemic form in this province, the provincial board of health, has requested the medical health officers of the province to include reported cases of the disease in their monthly returns of infectious and contagious diseases. The order also contains the information that cases of infantile paralysis should be quarantined for from two to three weeks.

Infantile paralysis has made its way into this province and several cases have been reported. It is of a most deadly nature, the victim succumbing to it within two or three days of attack. It has been especially prevalent in Ontario, particularly in Hamilton and Toronto where there was a large number of deaths resulting from it. It first attacked children and then adults were taken down with it. Infantile paralysis is a spinal disease.

CRIPPEN CASE.

It appeared to be that of Mrs. Crippen, traces of hyacinth, and the importance of that, was that an assistant at Messrs. Lewis Durrums, chemists, had stated that Crippen purchased on Jan. 19 five grains of hyacinth from his shop.

True Bill for Crippen.

"So far as Crippen is concerned," he continued, "by the evidence I have briefly indicated to you that there is an abundance of evidence to justify you in finding a true bill against him for the murder of his wife. Whatever may be the ultimate decision of the jury on the question of the identity of these remains, there is certainly evidence to justify you in saying that the case requires the fullest investigation."

"The case of Miss Le Neve is on an entirely different footing. What she is charged with is being an accessory after the fact. It is necessary for the prosecution to satisfy the jury that she relieved or comforted and assisted Crippen and that she knew he had committed this murder. Certainly there does not seem to be anything in the statement made by her on July 8 in which she seems to indicate that she had any knowledge at all that Crippen had committed murder. It will depend very much upon her demeanor, but it appears to have been a rational statement."

Referring to the evidence of Emily Jackson, Miss Le Neve's landlady, the recorder said that apparently the prosecution placed importance on it as appearing color to the suggestion that Miss Le Neve knew of the murder, but assuming that the landlady's statements that Miss Le Neve on one occasion was greatly agitated, were true, they did not appear to him to be going to the view that the accused knew of the murder.

Let Miss Le Neve Be Tried.

"The question before you," continued the recorder, "is as follows: Is there in this case presented before you evidence sufficient to justify you in saying that there is possible ground for believing that the jury would convict her for being an accomplice after the fact if it be found that murder has been committed. The prosecution has got to establish that fact. This case was investigated with great length by an experienced magistrate who has considered it his duty to commit the jury to trial. I do not consider it necessary to anticipate what decision the learned chief justice who will try the case will be upon the question to be submitted to him, nor what the opinion of the jury will be in the case left to them, but having regard to all the circumstances of the case, I think you ought to find a true bill against her. It is satisfactory to you that you should take that course, take it with the very greatest consciousness and every consideration. She will have every opportunity, if she desires, to avail herself of it, of giving any further information she may wish in the course of the trial."

The recorder then alluded to the other cases on the calendar.

The Lawyers in the Case.

Crippen will be represented at his trial by three lawyers, the best known of whom are Alfred Aspinwall, of Tobin, Unionist member of parliament for Preston, and Puntley Eugene Jenkins. Of the two who will look after the interests of Miss Le Neve, Frederick Edwin Smith is a leading Conservative member of parliament for Walton division of Liverpool.

ISOLATION FALT?

undisability of home isolation is again shown in the frequent inadequacy of fumigation. At the recent convention in Milwaukee a prominent doctor from Rhode Island contended that a first disinfection was unnecessary and did not do any good. Of course, the great majority of doctors there did not agree with him, and decided that a great deal more evidence was necessary before his contention could be taken seriously. No, I certainly think that hospital isolation is a great deal more desirable than home isolation."

SHORTAGE OF TEAMS

now, however, and they soon hope to be in a position to fill all their orders promptly. The Bush Cold Company said that they had had difficulty in getting coal. "The first week in September," said the manager, "which had such bad weather, was what made the trouble. The teams were unable to draw the full loads over the roads and in consequence people were only given half an order at a time. There is a shortage of teams too, mostly on account of the railway construction work and the threshing."

R. C. Dobell and Co. said that their chief trouble was in getting a sufficiency of teams. The reason for this, they said, was that the price of hay was so high that numbers of men had taken their horses north where feed was to be obtained cheaply, and that as high as $9 a day would have to be paid to persuade these men to bring their teams back. They seemed to think the situation is likely to continue.

The other companies are confident that a week will bring the trouble to a close.

BURY CHOLERA VICTIMS ALIVE

Russian Peasants Threw Woman and Black Cat Into River and Drowned Her.

ANOTHER GIRL BURNED

To Please Evil Spirits—Whole Villages Have Been Destroyed—Animal Sacrifices.

Odesa, Oct. 11.—The spread of the cholera in the rural districts is leading to the revival of awful superstitions, some of them demanding the sacrifice of human life. In the government of Archangel an old woman who was accused of having brought the cholera to the district was seized by the people of her village, stripped and put in a sack with a black cat and a black rooster. The sack was weighted and thrown into the river, and now the villagers announce that they will resist the government doctors who they have satisfied the evil spirit of the pest and are no longer afraid of it.

At Okopovitchi, another old woman thought to be a witch, was buried alive with the victims of the cholera. When the authorities attempted to rescue her, the police refused to take her out of the grave and she miserably perished.

At the village of Tsvetkatchi, several people stricken with cholera were thrown into a grave before they were dead.

In another village, at Possady, two bodies of people who died of the cholera were buried and burned in the town square. This sacrifice was supposed to please the evil spirits, but as a matter of fact it caused the cholera to spread among the bystanders, and the village may be wiped off the face of the earth. The persons buried had been pointed out as the originators of the pest in the district.

In other parts of the empire whole villages have been burned down by their inhabitants after they carried away their cattle and furniture. The village site was ploughed up, and the people are camping in tents. Of course the government would have to provide new houses for them or they will all perish in the coming winter.

In the government of Jaroslaw animal sacrifices are made to the cholera. Thousands of black cats have been buried alive to appease the evil spirit, and black roosters are in great demand for the same purpose. In the government of Vologda, the inhabitants of a village tried to keep the cholera away by processions and pilgrimages. After the sacrifice concluded the pilgrimages, the people started in the dark they fell upon a runaway horse, who was looking for a runaway horse. They stoned him to death.

WAS SECURITY AS SECURE AS NEEDED

Legal Puzzle Being Worked Out In Supreme Court Today—Witness Entangled.

The wording of a lien note "If he shall deem himself insured" was the origin of a case that came up before the supreme court this morning. The plaintiff Shaw purchased stock at Westlake last November, paying cash to the amount of $275 and giving lien notes to the amount of $260. The defendant Layton, who sold Shaw the cattle, heard of Shaw having sold cattle held under a lien note without apprising the purchasers of the liens on them and at once proceeded to seize Shaw's farm at Belmont, seize the stock, and coming back to Edmonton, served Shaw with a notice. Shaw now demands the restoration of the cattle on the grounds that Layton did not consider himself insured and therefore had no right to seize the cattle before the notes fell due. Mr. Robertson appears for the plaintiff and Ewing and O'Connor for the defendant.

The efforts of the lawyers to embarrass one witness resulted in a legal puzzle. Davis was asked by Mr. O'Connor who led the horse (a Percheron stallion) out.

"I did."

"Well, I got into the rig and Mr. Perse asked me to hold the rope while he drove as he couldn't do both."

"Well, then, you took the horse away."

The witness stoutly maintained his innocence of anything like theft and was hardly reassured by the laugh that went through the court-room at the verbal tangle in which his own words had involved him.

NO SPECIAL SLEUTHS FOR SEGREGATED AREA

Winnipeg, Oct. 10.—The council took some retrograde steps last night, rejecting their former decision to establish a salvage corps, and cutting off all appropriations to the police department for a staff of plain clothes officers, in what is regarded as the segregated area. In future there will be no special detective services. Two hospital bylaws were passed for reference to the ratemakers in December, although one alderman pointed out that they would conflict if both passed.

The watcher at the Dominion Land office who is camping out until next Monday, says that he finds the stone floor rather cold on these snowy nights, but he is fully determined to stay on his feet and secure the land and is thinking in consequence of installing a canvas cot in the doorway, so as to spend his nights more comfortably.

Four men were fined for drunkenness this morning in the police court. The assault case Richardson vs. Proctor, was again adjourned till Oct. 14 at 10.30 a.m.

TYPHOID IN STRATHCONA.

Is There an Epidemic of This Disease?—Ten Cases Reported Yesterday.

From information gathered there would seem to be an epidemic of typhoid fever in Strathcona. Mr. Giffson has been in the hospital several days very seriously ill with the fever. Mr. Milen's children have also been ill for some time though now recovering; last night two children of Mr. John Scholtz, First Ave. South, were removed from their home to the hospital by a physician, while at Mr. Cramer's residence, University avenue, no less than five persons are stricken down—two sons, two daughters, and Miss Patterson, who has been re-lying with the family.

TEACHERS' CONVENTION.

The teachers' convention of Northern Alberta will be held at Westlake this year, Oct. 27 and 28. A number of the Edmonton teachers are present. The convention will be held at the hotel. Mr. McCaig addresses the Lacombe teachers on the same dates.

The History of Edmonton Y.M.C.A.

It is not three years yet since the first member was enrolled in the Edmonton Y.M.C.A. This event took place on November 17, 1907. The membership on the opening of the present building was 474. The following year it increased to 712, and on April 30 of this year the total membership was 1009. The receipts from the membership in 1909 were $3,995.50 and in 1910 they were $6,244.35 with an increase of less than forty per cent in the membership.

These are but a few facts concerning the Y.M.C.A. which demonstrates the widespread interest that is taken in the institution and the wide field of service.

The first meeting having to do with a Y.M.C.A. in Edmonton was held on December 21, 1903. On January 4, 1904 a committee commenced a canvass for funds and on April 5, 1906 a regularly appointed secretary named Mr. R. B. Chadwick, came to the city to take up the work. The corner stone of the present new building was laid by Mrs. Bulley, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor, who presided at the ceremony, on July 1, 1907. The present general secretary, Mr. J. W. Ward arrived in the city to assume his duties on December 24, 1907. The new building was formally opened on February 6, 1908.

This is the institution which will inaugurate a campaign next week to raise $5,000 for the extension purposes and to wipe off the debt on the building.

A PROSPEROUS WINTER.

Bradstreet's Man Says Everything Points to Good Business This Season.

H. V. Veal, provincial manager of Bradstreet's, who is a guest at the King Edward, states that indications point to a prosperous winter in Alberta. Conditions generally are much better all over the province. "Business in the south," said Mr. Veal, "which experienced a slump during the dry spell, has picked up wonderfully following the season of rain that came just in time to save some of the crops and give the cattle on the ranges grass to feed on. In the northern part of the province conditions are excellent. It is really surprising to note the changes and improvements of the last few months."

KLONDIKER COMES BACK

See Edmonton After Lapse of Twelve Years—Seek Money in Land Now

Two veteran miners who passed through Edmonton on their way to the Yukon in 1898 at the time of the Klondike stampede, arrived in the city yesterday, from Dawson City where they have spent the last twelve years. Mr. LaForce and J. Boucher, saw Edmonton when it was a trading post and now come back to find it a city with street cars and railways.

They say that owing to the changed methods of mining, large plants of machinery being used instead of individual labor, the search for gold has received a considerable set back. The Guggenheim interests have seven large dredges working in the vicinity of Dawson over ground that has already been worked by small miners. The two men are in town with a view to locate land in the district.

THE CONQUEST OF CANADA

By BOOTH TARKINGTON,
Author of "Cherry," "Monsieur Beaucaire," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1905, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

"Well, perhaps," he assented, "but they say he rambles and drinks and that last week Judge Pike threatened to have him arrested for throwing dice with some negroes behind the judge's stable."

"What of it? I'm about the only person in town that will have anything to do with him—and nobody except you thinks I'm very nice!"

"Arieli! Arieli!"

"I know all about his gambling with darters," she continued excitedly, her voice rising, "and I know that he goes to saloons and that he's an intimate friend of half the riffraff in town. And I know the reason for it, too, because he's told me. He wants to know them, to understand them, and he says some day they'll make him a power, and then he can help them."

The old man laughed helplessly, "But I can't let him bring you home, my dear!"

"She came to him slowly and laid her hands upon his shoulders. Grandfather and granddaughter were nearly of the same height and size, and looked squarely into his eyes. Then you must say it is because you want to come for me, not because I mustn't come with Joe."

"But I think it is a little because you mustn't come with Joe," he answered, "especially from the Pike's. Don't you see that it might be well for Joe himself if the judge should happen to see him? I understand he warned the boy to keep away from the neighborhood entirely or he would have him locked up for dice throwing. The judge is a very influential man, you know, and as determined in matters like this as he is irritable."

"Oh, if you put it on that ground," the girl replied, her eyes softening, "I think you'd better come to my mother."

"Very well, I put it on that ground," he returned, smiling upon her.

"Then I'll send Joe word and get supper," she said, kissing him.

It was the supper hour not only for them, but everywhere in Canada, and the cold air of the streets bore up and down and around corners the smell of things frying. The dining room windows of all the houses threw bright patches on the snow of the side yards. The windows of other rooms, except those of the kitchens, were dark, for the rule of the place was Puritanism in thrift as in all things, and the good housekeepers disputed every record of the meters with unhappy gas collectors.

There was no better housekeeper in town than Mrs. Louisa, a stern, thrifty, but here was one of the few houses in Canada that evening which showed bright lights in the front rooms while the family were at supper. It was proof of the agitation caused by the arrival of Eugene that she forgot to turn out the gas in her parlor and in the chamber she reached a library on her way to the evening meal.

Joe escaped as soon as he could, though not before the count of his inter-sine had been set before Eugene in detail, in mass and in all of their depth, breadth and thickness. His father spoke but once after nodding heavily to confirm all points of Mrs. Louisa's recap.

"You better use any influence you've got with your brother," he said to Eugene, "to make him come to this. I can't do anything with him. If he gets in trouble, he needn't come to me! I'll never help him again. I'm tired of it!"

Joe's movements throughout the earlier part of that evening are of uncertain report. It is known that he made a partial payment of his debts at a second-hand book store for a number of volumes, "Grindstaff on Torts" and some others, which he had neglected on the installment system. It is also believed that he won 25 cents playing seven-up in the little room behind Louis Partridge's bar, but these details are of little import compared to the established fact that at 11 o'clock he was one of the ball guests at the Pike mansion. He took no active part in the festivities, nor was he one of the dancers. His was, on the contrary, the role of a quiet observer. He lay stretched at full length upon the floor of the immense porch—one of the strips of canvas was later found to have been loosened—wedged between the outer railing and a row of palms in green tulle.

Two seats as she crossed and recrossed in a waltz left him apparently in no discomfort. He watched with parted lips, his pale cheeks reddening whenever those fair glimpses were his. At last she came out to the veranda with Eugene and sat upon a little divan, so close to Joe that, during wildly in the shadow, he reached out a trembling hand and let his fingers rest upon the end of her scarf, which had fallen from her shoulders and touched the floor. She sat with her back to him, as did Eugene.

"You have changed, I think, since last summer," he heard her say reflectively.

"For the worse, ma chérie? Joe's expression might have been worse, seeing when Eugene said "ma chérie," for it was known in the Louisa household that Mr. Bantley had failed to pass his examination in the French language.

"No," she answered, "But you have seen so much and accomplished so much since then. You have become so polished and so—" She paused and then continued: "But perhaps I'd better not say it. You might be offended."

"No, I want you to say it," he returned confidently, and his confidence was fully justified, for she said: "Well, then, I mean that you have become so thorough a man of the world. Now I've said it. You are of different, aren't you?"

"Not at all; not at all," replied Mr. Bantley, protesting by a masterful fold of his pleasure from showing in his face.

"Then I'm glad," she whispered, and Joe saw his stepmother touch her hand, but she rose quickly. "There's the music," she cried happily. "It's a waltz, and it's yours."

Joe heard her little high heels tapping gaily toward the window, followed by the heavier tread of Eugene, but he did not watch them go.

He lay on his back, with the hand that had touched Marie's scarf pressed across his closed eyes.

The music of the waltz was of the old-fashioned swingingly sorrowful sort, and it would be hard to say how long it was after the lights had been turned out, but he lay without a recurrence of the bitterness of that moment. The rhythmic pathos of the violins was in such accord with a faint sound of weeping which he heard near him presently that for a little while he believed this sound to be part of the music and part of himself. Then it became more distinct, and he raised himself on one elbow to look about.

Very close to him, sitting upon the divan in the shadow, was a girl wearing a dress of beautiful silk. She was crying softly, her face in her hands.

CHAPTER IV.

ARIEL had worked all the afternoon over her mother's wedding gown, and two hours were required by her to get it ready for the dance. She curled her hair frizzily, burning it here and there, with a state pencil heated over a lamp chimney, and she placed above one ear three or four large artificial roses, taken from an old hat of her mother's, which she carefully found in a trunk in the wardrobe. Possessing no slippers, she carefully blacked and polished her shoes, which had been clumsily resoled, and fastened into the strings of each small rosette of red ribbon, after which she practiced swinging the train of her skirt until she was proud of her manipulation of it. She had no powder, but found in her grandfather's room a lump of magnesia that he was in the habit of taking for her father and passed it over and over her brown face and hands. Then a lingering gaze into her mirror gave her joy at last. She yawned so hard to see herself charming that she did see herself so. Admiration came, and she told herself that she was more attractive to look at than she had ever been in her life and that perhaps at last she might begin to be sought for, like other girls.

It was in the Pike mansion room that the change began to come. There was a big cheval glass at one end of the room, and she faced it when her turn came for the mirror. She was popular with a sinking spirit. There was the contrast, like a picture painted and framed. The other girls all wore their hair after the fashion introduced to Canada by Marie Pike the week before on her return from a visit to Chicago. None of them had "retrains" and none had belted their tresses with artificial flowers. Her alterations of the wedding dress had not been successful; the skirt was too short in front and higher on one side than on the other, showing too plainly the heavy solid shoes, which had lost their polish in the walk through the snow. The ribbon roses were fully revealed, and as she gazed in the mirror she heard the words, "Look at that train and those roses!" whispered behind her and saw in the mirror two pretty young women turn away with their handkerchiefs over their mouths and retreat hurriedly to an alcove. All the girls in the room except Arieli were in dainty kid or satin slippers of the color of the dresses from which they glimmered out, and only Arieli wore a train.

WILL CONSPIRACY STORY COME OUT?

Truth About the Colossal Plan to Defeat Liberals in 1904 May Become Known

TWO OLD FRIENDS FALL OUT

Dave Russell's Suit Against J. N. Greenfields Promises Revelations

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 11.—The only political significance which can attach to the action of Dave Russell against J. N. Greenfields, K. C., of Montreal, in connection with commissions and land deals in Qu'Appelle Valley Railway grants, lies in the hope that the case will come to trial, and that the inside story of the conspiracy to defeat the Liberals in the campaign of 1904 will come to light.

So far all endeavours to get Russell under examination have failed, but it is hoped that the bad blood now known to exist between the two former associations will result in a lifting of the curtain upon the plot which failed in 1904.

There can be no disclosures affecting now in public life, because The Star correspondent was assured both by Hon. William Pugsley and E. B. Osler, M.P., some months since, that there was no politics in the transaction.

Russell's suit is for $125,000 damages.

CANADA'S BOUNDLESS RESOURCES.

A party of agricultural editors who recently made a trip to Western Canada, were so impressed with what they saw that they are writing columns of favorable articles in connection with the resources of that part of the country.

The "American Agriculturist" of New York under date Sept. 3, 1910, bore the following to say:

Great is Canada West; great are the actualities of that vast stretch of prairie provinces in grain production, and great the possibilities in animal husbandry. Well may the United States look with wholesome respect upon the rapid development of that new country which is in only the beginning of its realization of strength and innate forcefulness, in production, in manufacturing, in commerce. Well may the farmers of our own country note the taking form of a competition in grain growing, right now; that is of no mean proportions. Yet there is nothing new in all this, if one goes back in history but a scant half dozen years. Then, no cereal production worth considering; now a hundred million bushels of wheat a year, and this capable of unlimited expansion—for scarcely five per cent of western Canada is yet under the plow. These are the appalling thoughts occasioned by an editorial journey in August, covering some 3,000 miles over the three great railway systems of Canada. These are stretching their long fingers of steel through Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The high lights are many. Space forbids at the moment, touching but a few, and these the merest mention. The crops are not as large as last year, owing to some unexpected drought, yet generous, in wheat, oats, barley and flax. Railway extension is rapid, and of the best possible character, looking toward a further vigorous campaign of developing the land. Homesteads, the free gift of the Dominion government, are now very largely exhausted, unless one goes back in the country many miles from a railway. Canadians want lower tariffs on farm machinery. Incoming settlers include thousands of our own best men from Wisconsin and Iowa westward. The recent report of large numbers of dissatisfied American farmers leaving Canada and returning to "the states" is a canard, according to United States Consul Jones, stationed at Winnipeg. On the contrary, the many erstwhile Americans met by American Agriculturalist's editorial representative were enthusiastic boosters for their new home. These are absolute facts. It is just as well for our people to know them. Western Canada is rapidly developing along the very best of lines. The pity is, that these two grand countries should be forever politically divided by the gods parallel of latitude. One lesson for our own farmers is to practice better agriculture and get more bushels of wheat from an acre, and in some of the states in our own northwest to further develop the live stock end of farming. Great is Canada; great, also is Uncle Sam.

GOLD FILLINGS AS PROPERTY

Man Who Fails to Pay for Them in San Francisco Arrested, Charged With Fraud.

SCOURS KNIVES WITH GOLD DUST

Cook of Alaska Steamer Runs Out of Scouring Soap and Gets "Sand" from Hold

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 11.—Charlie, a Chinese cook of the steamer Northland, will never again scour his pans with sand. He failed to notice when he brought finely powdered scouring dust from the forward hold of the ship that he was wasting gold bearing sand.

Charlie ran out of scouring soap when the boat was 1,000 miles from a grocery. He looked about the ship for a brick to make dust, but, finding none, appropriated a bushel of nice black sand from the hold.

Capt. Bruun complimented the cook on the appearance of the cutlery she brought for a brick to make dust, but, finding none, appropriated a bushel of nice black sand from the hold.

Dear Madam:

Since our notice of a change in the management of The Bon Marche, we have not yet had the pleasure of a visit from you.

We use this advertisement to call your attention to the fact that it means money saved by doing so.

We have brought in large shipments of your requirements, and we ask your approval. In FURS especially have we quality and value to offer as an inducement to interest our customers.

We have gone to considerable expense to bring from the East up-to-date styles, and a visit will convince you.

Lower Californian Fish.

Barracuda, rock cod, halibut, white sea bass, rock bass, mackerel, whitefish and other varieties are said to be abundant in the waters of Lower California.

The Poisonous Poppy.

In Turkey if a man falls asleep in the neighborhood of a poppy field and the wind blows from the field toward him he becomes narcotized and would die if the country people, who are well acquainted with the circumstances, did not bring him to a well or stream and empty pitcher after pitcher of water on his face and body.

Wooden Heels.

The so called "French" heels for women's shoes are made by hand of birch wood that has been seasoned at least two years.
